--Of Local Interest--

Small crowd in town Monday.

The weather has been as hot as the average religious discussion.

This office is preparing handsome bonds for the water works question.

Spend a delightful vacation at Crab Orchard Springs and you will be well repaid in health and recreation.

The Kay Peas have pulled together and the regular Friday night meetings attract many members. The lodge is made up of the best material in town.

Court Day

Only a fair crowd came in Monday, and business didn't amount to much. The drouth was the chief topic of conversation, and many distressing accounts thereof were brought in. The farmers discussed crops, a few traders swapped horses and the loafers talked politics. Few drunks on hand.

To Keep Flies from Stock.

In two quarts of boiling water dissolve one quart pound of common hard soap; add one pint of coal oil; churn together till well mixed, and then dilute with three quarts of water and one quart of fish oil. If a large quantity be made, maintain these proportions. This emulsion applied every other day to stock will keep the flies away. —Ex.

Crab Orchard Fair.

The Crab Orchard fair was not only one of the best given in the state, but it proved the greatest financial success of the season. While the premiums were liberal, yet there was no unnecessary waste of money on the rings, but everything so evened up as to bring good stock for every ring. This goes to prove that the association has the best set of officers to be found. The crowds were very large, but every body was taken care of comfortably. The C. O. fair is now one of the best-known in the South, and justly bears the reputation of dispensing more genuine, old-fashioned Kentucky hospitality than can be found in ten years' travel.

Nothing Better.

The blackberry season is about over. From what we can learn many gallons of jam and cordial have been put up by the good housewives of the community, says the Midway Clipper. The small boy who takes his lunch to school may expect a liberal supply of jam on his biscuits next fall and winter. —Blackberry jam seems to have been invented especially as a filler for school lunches, and we know of nothing on earth that will satisfactorily take its place. We suppose that in the lives of all our greatest men there have been many moments devoted to the eating of the favorite preserve.

Fish Received.

Local nimrods received notice last week to have "a barrel" at the depot Friday evening to receive a consignment of fish from the Government car, which would pass this way at that time. All the barrels, tubs, buckets and kegs in town were carted out to the train. When the car arrived, all had coats off to assist in unloading the vast number of the finny tribe, when lo and behold, the fellow in charge handed out sixty five "pumpkin seed" about two inches long. They were put in a capsule and borne to a nearby pond, where, with due pomp and ceremony they were set at liberty. If Uncle Sammel is going to give away fish, he should not be so stingy.

Many Splendid Features.

At the Lexington Elks Fair, Aug. 10-15 inclusive, this year the dog and pony circus will interest the children, the Japanese Theatre, the Beautiful Orient, the Turkish Theatre, the miniature railway, the Gipsy Camp, the merry-go-round and the dozen or more other features are bound to draw great crowds. The sensational railroad collision which takes place Wednesday, Aug. 12, is expected to draw big. The stock rings will be more than usually attractive this year, the speed rings will be patronized by the best owners and trainers and the daily racing promises even more than it has been in the past. The entry lists at the Fair this year so far have been most encouraging in all rings and a good time is being cut out for all who attend. The special rate of one fare the round trip has been made by all railroads.

Former Lancaster Man.

Mr John T Higgins, of Ada, Idaho, was in Lancaster a few days and paid this office a pleasant call. He came to Stanford by the illness of his mother. He has been quite fortunate in the business world, and is engaged in the general merchandise business now at Ada. Mr Higgins was engaged in the hotel business while a resident of Lancaster, and is well remembered by the citizens of the town. He was one of 2,000 people to whom the word "Go" was given and astride a pony, across plains and rivers he rode among and in advance of thousands from Hennessey, O. T. to Enid, O. T., to stake a government claim. A train, allowed to run only 18 miles an hour, crowded with people impatient arrived on the grounds 15 or 20 minutes after. Mr Higgins and his pony had been there so he had choice of lots. His mother died a short time after his arrival in Stanford last week, the burial taking place in the Lancaster Cemetery.

A Hunting Boy.

The Record now has the best and most energetic young man the office has ever employed, Mr Lenny Miller. He is prompt, polite, reliable, punctual, industrious and puts forth every effort to make it pleasant and agreeable for those about him. Last week while we were away, he set up and printed, complete, the program for the vocal contest, which contained twenty-five different "ads," and the program. He had no one to ask questions every five minutes, like most older "printers" do, but went it alone and the job shows how well it was done. There is nothing which affords more pleasure than to teach a young man who appreciates what you do for him and nothing more disgusting than the one who goes about with a snarl and don't-care air. The former are few and far between. Most all help, now-a-days, wants to be paid, and also permitted to say what they will and will not do. Then they growl when fired.

Saved His Shade Trees.

One of the few people of this section who were fortunate enough to protect their English elm trees from the ravages of the elm tree beetle, is Mr Dixie Hammond, of the Stringtown neighborhood. Mr Hammond has a large lawn which is splendidly shaded by a luxuriant growth of English elms, and today they are as fresh and as vigorous as they were before the devastating beetle made its appearance in this section. The thrifty condition of the trees is due entirely to the watchfulness of Mr Hammond. Regularly three times each season the insects made their appearance on these trees, and immediately Mr Hammond went over the trees with a spray pump, treating the insects to a poisonous solution, which not only killed the beetle itself, but destroyed its larva, and today he has the handsomest grove of shade trees of any man in the county. —Nelson County Record.

Record's Editor Honored.

The following from the Lexington Leader tells of a high honor conferred upon the editor of The Record, at the meeting of the Kentucky Press Association, at Lexington last week:

The Leader says: Mr. Clarence E. Woods, of Richmond, nominated Editor Louis Landram, of the Lancaster Central Record, for Vice-President, paying him a glowing tribute as a son of the late General W. J. Landram, and the one man in Kentucky who had for years successfully conducted an independent newspaper. Mr. Heber Mathews, of the Hartford Herald, seconded Mr. Landram's nomination, who was unanimously elected. The new Vice-President responded to calls for a speech, saying that he appreciated the high honor and that he would do all in his power to advance the order. And everybody who knows Mr. Landram and his past efforts know that he spoke from the heart.

Rev J E Wolford will fill his pulpit Sunday morning, at the Baptist church. The Union services will be held in the Baptist church Sunday night. Dr E H Pearce will preach.

Advertising Pays.

"Say, take out that advertisement about the boards I had to sell," said clever "Billy" Lawson, the popular and efficient sheriff to The Record man. "I sold them all in less time than it takes to tell it, and still people ask about them."

A Success.

The ice cream supper given by the Christian Aid Society for the benefit of Fair View church at the home of Dr N Mays was a great success, $31.93 being cleared. The ladies wish to thank those who kindly furnished the music and the public for their patronage.

Mat Siler Hurt.

His many friends regret to learn that Mat Siler received a serious kick from a horse Monday afternoon. He was at Arnold's stable when one of the many horses hitched there kicked him in the back of the head, inflicting an ugly and painful wound. He is much improved, and will be out soon. Mat is a mighty clever fellow, and one of the best policemen the town ever had.

Fire at Nina.

The large store of Mr E C Creech, at Nina, burned a few nights ago, together with the post office fixtures and all the mail. Mr Creech believed foul play as to the origin, and bloodhounds were brought to track the incendiaries, but there had been so much walking about the place the dogs couldn't strike a trail. Loss about $2,300 with only $1,500 insurance. Citizens living in that neighborhood trust that Mr Creech will rebuild.

The Contest.

The Vocal Contest drew a good crowd to the court house Tuesday, and the entertainment was delightful. Each number was so well given that the audience was in doubt as to who would receive the prizes. The judges finally awarded the first prize to Miss Cora Ward, the Lancaster entry. She was also voted the popular prize by the audience. The second prize went to Miss Susan Mitchell, of Midway. During the evening Miss Bessie Elkin, of Louisville played some delightful numbers on the piano.

New Stage Line.

Alex Miller, the best hustler in town has bought the Danville stage line and will take possession next week. Alex has a number of good horses, as the traveling public knows, and will buy a new surrey and other vehicles suitable for the business. The line will be put in first class shape in every way, and the public will be given a service second to none in the country. He will make a specialty of carrying packages and baggage, and all you have to do is ring up 122 and he will do the rest. See ad elsewhere in The Record.

Everybody Can See Them.

The two locomotives which are to crash together in the sensational head end collision on Wednesday afternoon August 12th at the Lexington Elks Fair, will be on exhibition on their specially constructed tracks in front of the grand stand on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the week of the Fair. After that the wreckage in the infield can be viewed by the thousands of visitors who will attend. The head end collision promises to be one of the most awe inspiring exhibitions of the kind ever seen in Kentucky. The special rate of one fare the round trip has been granted on all railroads.

LEXINGTON.

In our mention of the Press Association's meeting in Lexington last week we hadn't time to speak of several of the most delightful features of the newspaper men's visit. Wednesday morning as soon as the meeting was opened "in due and ancient form," the good people of the city "rushed upon and seized" the press people and the one continuous round of fun and pleasure began. The first institution visited was the asylum, where the competent, gentlemanly and faithful officials took charge of the bunch and showed them through the entire place. The editors were greatly impressed with the cleanliness, tidiness and management of the institution, and many compliments were heard thereon. A most delightful lunch was served, and the way yellow-legged chicken disappeared before that throng would have made a Methodist camp meeting green with envy. Several speeches were made and the party left for visits to Kentucky University and State College. These institutions are so large and of so much importance that we will speak of them later on, and endeavor to give our readers some idea of what good they are accomplishing and the noble work they are doing for the state. We spoke in our last article of the royal reception and entertainment given by the three daily newspapers. Well, they did the thing up to a Queen's taste. Lexington is every reason to feel proud of her newspapers. They have the finest offices in the south and their papers are right up to the second in every thing. A man may travel from now 'til doom's day and he would not find three more honorable, big-hearted gentlemen than Sam J Roberts, W P Walton and Desha Breckinridge. Of course it is useless for this feeble writer to attempt to say any thing that would do justice to that big-brained, noble, silver-tongued gentleman, Col. William C. P. Breckinridge. Lee Davis, of the Observer, Fred Ballard, Jouett Shouse, Enoch Grehn, Shelton Sauley and some half dozen other newspaper men kept their shoulders to the wheel all day and then laid awake all night, studying up something more to do for their brethren of the quill. All right, boys, if we ever catch you out here in the brush, we will try and reciprocate, though we know we can never fully repay your kindness.

The Lexington Brewery opened a keg of nails, and the boys did ample justice to the best beer to be had anywhere. The Lexington brew is strictly pure and wholesome, and if you need a case of absolutely pure beer for family use, order it from the Lexington Brewing Co., and you will certainly get the very best to be had. The Lexington street car service is the best in the South, and those who have ridden in its magnificent cars will readily testify to the fact. This company is always at the head of the list every enterprise or undertaking the city of Lexington has. The Phoenix Hotel was, as usual, headquarters, and with clever Billy Betts at the counter the guests had everything coming their way. The School of Reform was visited Thursday, and the editors' eyes were opened when they saw the size and importance of the institution. They were also agreeably surprised at the able and careful management of the concern. Here are located some 375 young boys and girls who had been turned loose in the world to go to the dogs, to the devil, or any old place where their lives would have been wrecked. If any taxpayer will visit this concern he will not only feel proud that he is allowed the privilege of helping to keep up the institution, but will readily agree that the Legislature should double its appropriation in this direction.

Some members of the present association may live to be very old men but they will never exist long enough to forget the lovely reception tendered them by Hon. Jas. H. Mulligan at his delightful home Wednesday evening. The lovely house was handsomely decorated, the spacious lawn brilliantly lighted, the scene one of enchantment. Lexington society was out in full force, and we have never had the pleasure of meeting more beautiful and charming women and agreeable gentlemen than were present on this occasion. Judge Mulligan, who is known far and wide for his big heart and hospitality, was ably assisted in entertaining by his handsome and charming wife. In the receiving line were the sweetest and prettiest of Lexington's young girls, while many of the charming matrons aided in entertaining the guests. Our limited space forbids further description of this lovely event, but we will say that if Judge Mulligan ever gives the newspaper fraternity of Kentucky a chance to draw their grey goose quills on him they will certainly remember him.

The boys are under special obligations to Mr. J. P. Moore, the clever general agent for the L. and N. road, who gave his undivided time and attention to the guests. He kept the bunch right on time, reaching each point of interest exactly at the time arranged.

The meeting was one of the most enjoyable the association has ever held, and Lexington not only endeared herself to the newspaper men but convinced them of what The Lancaster Record has always contended, that Lexington is the only logical location for the State capital.

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Bosche's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. CENTRAL RECORD.

LOUIS LANDRAM.

Lancaster, Ky., July 31, 1903.

The large attendance of bona fide newspaper men at the Lexington meeting proved conclusively that the press of the state has determined to stand together more closely and hold out for what is justly due them. No class of people on earth do more gratuitous work, or receive less thanks than the newspaper fraternity. The average person seems to think that favors done by newspapers consist wholly in what is said of and about people. In this the public is sadly mistaken. It is what is left unsaid for which nine out of every ten persons should be truly thankful. The way to think of this is to bring it home to yourself. Have any of your family ever gotten drunk, kicked up a fuss and made asses of themselves? We don't suppose any of your friends ever broke into court? Now what did the newspaper man do when those things happened? Did he publish it to the world, as he had a right to do? Did the newspaper man ever publish the reports of your crooked acts, either in business or private life? Think over this and if the shoe don't fit you, probably you have some friend who has acted the black sheep and whose name you didn't see paraded before the public. Now, to the point: Did you even thank the newspaper man for his consideration of your feelings? Don't think the editor was not "on," for he certainly knew it. Some people are even narrow-minded enough to say the editor didn't print such stories because he was afraid. Don't, for pity's sake, don't get it into your head that fear keeps any editor from printing anything. There are fewer dead editors than any other class of people. Editors soon become accustomed to being criticised, and also soon learn to consider the source of such comment, and when they know the fellows who say their paper is no good, couldn't write a postal card, and if they hold any position at all it is because of the influence of some friend, or because some rich relative died and left them money, editors don't let such comment worry them long. Beside, if you get mad every time you have to deal with a demagogue, you will be hot in the collar half the time. The object of the editorial association is for sociability, to freeze out fake "newspapers," and fake advertisers and promote the good of society and the commonwealth. If the people will stand by the press of the state, the reputable papers, more good will be accomplished than through any other channel.

Secretary Morningstar, of the Kentucky Press Association, has a long head on him. In the trip to the lakes, he began by showing the Kentuckians first a small river, then Niagara Falls, then larger bodies of water. To bring them to a large body of water suddenly was too great a shock for the boys, and Bob knew they couldn't stand it.

Misses Hattie Bogle and Minnie Gulley visited Miss Iva Hendren in Kirksville, last week.

Misses Fannie Mae Miles and Irene Simpson were guests of Miss Ora Hendren in Kirksville last week and attended the fair.

On the evening of July 13th, at five o'clock, the spirit of Mrs Lizzie Simpson took its flight to a better and brighter world. She was the daughter of Mr and Mrs George Anderson, of Stone, the wife of Joseph Simpson, of this place, and the mother of thirteen children, eleven of them living. She was a kind hearted christian woman, and as long as she was able to do so, was a regular attendant at all the services held at her church. To say this sad death shocked every one, and brought untold sorrow to the entire community, would but half express it. She had been in declining health for more than a year, but was thought to be better. She was such a patient sufferer, and bore her afflictions with such fortitude that will ever be remembered by her many friends. She had a kind and cheerful word for both old and young. Bereaved ones, try to say "God's will be done." She has crossed the dark river, and stands waiting for you, but you can go to her—she waits with the two little ones, with arms outstretched, beckoning for all of you. We feel like we have lost all earth but our heavenly treasure is greater. Oh! how sweet her rest! How high her joy! How glorious her surroundings! Home at last. May God keep her memory green and make her life a blessing to all. Funeral services were appropriately conducted by J. M Bruce, of Lancaster, Tuesday morning, and remains laid to rest in cemetery here.

LET JUSTICE BE DONE.

Advertising Law Prepared by Newspaper Men Will Protect Litigants and Taxpayers. Hard on the Thief.

At the meeting of the State Press Association, held in Lexington last week, editors from several parts of the state reported that some lawyers were raising a kick on the new advertising law recently passed by the Legislature. As our readers have been informed, this law requires that where property is to be sold, (especially where non-resident and infant heirs are concerned) the sale must be advertised at least three times in some newspaper of general circulation. Of course the editors want to make a few extra dollars, but at the same time the law is more for the protection of the parties to the suit than anything else. Our readers are well aware of the fact that in nearly every locality, there are men who watch the legal sales, do all sort of scheming and trickery to bid in the property at two-thirds of its appraised value and thereby secure property which they can turn around and sell for its real value and come out many dollars ahead on the graft. Who suffers in such transactions? Why the poor devil who is being sold out, of course. By advertising the sale in a newspaper, the attention of the public is called to the fact, prospective buyers have a chance to investigate the title, look at the land, and when the commissioner gets up to sell it, the property will, nine times in ten, bring far nearer its real value. Its a bad state of case, but nevertheless true, that under the old way of advertising there were men who would watch the opportunity and tear down the little bill posted at the court house door, then nobody knew of the sale, the shark would be ready and bid in the property as soon as the commissioner put it up.

All reputable lawyers, who have investigated this law, say it is a splendid move, but the little backwoods shyster, who, probably has been known to buy in property in this manner, say the law is no good. Of course its no "good" to him. We know, and probably you know, of cases where families have been turned out of homes on which they had made payments, because the property was sold over their heads and bought by tricksters who had worked just such a scheme as mentioned above. Its the hit dog who howls, always, and if you hear any kick along this line, put on your studying cap a few minutes before agreeing with him.

The committee dug out all the laws requiring publication in newspapers, and you would be surprised at the number of matters to which the public and taxpayers are lawfully entitled to information. Here are a few: Election of Fiscal Court; alternate reports of banks; annual reports of banks, towns and investment companies; application for parole of convict, assignee for claims; application for discharge of assignee for claims; assignments, voluntary; bonds for election to pay for pikes, building, repairing same, etc; statement of receipts and disbursements of all towns; annual list of county claims, sittings for, etc; commissioner's sales, etc; reports of corporations; annual fiscal report of county; sheriff's or tax collector settlements; sheriff's report of delinquents; strays taken up, and many other equally as important matters.

These laws have been on the statute books all the time, but, for some unaccountable reason, they have never been observed. We have lived in Garrard county all our life, and have never seen a sheriff's settlement published in a newspaper. That those who pay taxes are entitled to know the condition of the county, and town tax payers to know where their money goes, is patent, but the law has never been carried out, not through any carelessness or rottenness, of course, but simply because it has not been customary. "Well, what will be done if these matters are not published, there's no penalty," said an official to a newspaper man in Mercer county. "Oh, of course you don't know," replied the scribe, but if you will look under the head, 'Malfeasance in Office,' or duties of grand juries, you may find that you can be handled pretty seriously."

We give these facts to show the public that the newspaper men want to protect the taxpayer, the litigant and the public generally, and that the advertising law was not enacted solely for the benefit of the papers. We know some "lawyers," (who ought to be plowing corn) who have taken occasion to criticise this law and the newspapers. These men are under more obligations to the newspaper men than any other class of people. If the papers have never lauded them to the skies, they certainly have suppressed matters that would take much wind out of their sails. While the newspaper men have much to say on the good side of all questions, they don't print all they know, by a blanked sight, if you please. Those reputable lawyers, who have looked into the matter, say the laws are exactly right, but those who have an axe to grind, probably want to get hold of some property in the manner above described.

er been observed. We have lived in Garrard county all our life, and have never seen a sheriff's settlement published in a newspaper. That those who pay taxes are entitled to know the condition of the county, and town tax payers to know where their money goes, is patent, but the law has never been carried out, not through any carelessness or rottenness, of course, but simply because it has not been customary. "Well, what will be done if these matters are not published, there's no penalty," said an official to a newspaper man in Mercer county. "Oh, of course you don't know," replied the scribe, but if you will look under the head, 'Malfeasance in Office,' or duties of grand juries, you may find that you can be handled pretty seriously."

Short Crop and High Prices for Tobacco

The recent rise in the prices of cotton and their apparent permanence has led to a reduction of the acreage assigned to tobacco in the south and a corresponding increase in the cotton acreage says the New York Sun. Tobacco houses in this city for sometime have been in receipt of advices which say generally that the profit in cotton growing is so large under present conditions that the tobacco acreage may be considerably reduced.

The southern advices seem to indicate that farmers there have come to the conclusion that cotton is to be king again, and it is to their interest to cultivate that staple in the place of tobacco. The result of such action would be a decrease of the tobacco supply and a corresponding increase in its price.

In addition to this fact, another indication of high prices for tobacco lies in the fact that weather conditions were unfavorable in some sections of the south during the planting season. Continuous rainy weather, particularly in North Carolina and Virginia, put planting operations behind and the tobacco was set late.

In other sections, notably Tennessee, the weather was alternately warm and cold and the growth of vegetation was retarded.

Southern tobacco journals are nearly united in predicting a short crop of tobacco even under the most favorable circumstances. The average crop prediction is two-thirds of the ordinary crop.

No Pity Shows.

"For years fate was after me continuously," writes F A Gulleed, Verbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of Piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. Equally good for Burns and all aches and pains. Only 25c at McRoberts' drug store. 1 m

Almost anything will do for a political slogan when the prime object is to fool the voter.

Bronchitis For Twenty Years.

Disinterested friendship is not a rare virtue, but it is not as extensively cultivated as it should be.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," says Mrs Chas Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicine failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr King's New Discovery wholly cured me, and I gained 58 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at McRoberts' drug store. 1 m

When a man begins to assert publicly that he is an honest man, it is a sign that the public doubts it.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobick of Colusa, Cal., writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by McRoberts druggist. 1 m

Sometimes a woman marries a model husband only to find out that he is constituted on the wrong principle.

No False Claims.

The proprietors of Foley's Honey and Tar do not advertise this as a "sure cure for consumption." They do not claim it will cure this dread complaint in advanced cases, but do positively assert that it will cure in the earlier stages and never fails to give comfort and relief in the worst cases. Foley's Honey and Tar is without doubt the greatest throat and lung remedy. Refuse substitutes. Sold by CC & J E Stormes. 1 m

Man is born to rule the world—but along comes woman and declares it is up to her.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea. "About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine costing but a few cents cured me." For sale by all druggists. 1 m

Cupid had made himself exceedingly scarce in and about Lancaster until last week, when a "boom" sprang up in the matrimonial line and weddings came so thick and fast it was difficult to keep track of them. If we were to say all the nice things which could be said about the beautiful brides, their many charms and good qualities and the high standing and popularity of the grooms, The Record would come out this week double its usual size. All of the marriages were surprises, several of the parties stealing the march on the "old folks." Coming as they did, so suddenly, and the parties all belonging to Lancaster and Garard county's most prominent families and being leaders in society, the weddings were the sole topic of conversation in society circles. The Record congratulates each and everyone of the contracting parties, and sincerely trusts their pathway through life will be strewn with sweetest roses. The following is a list of the happy couples: Miss Sallie Ross and Mr Arch Lawson, Miss Nora Saunders and Mr Oglesvie

The Locomotive Engineer.

While the country is from time to time alarmed with the number of railroad wrecks, the appalling loss of life and injury to property and blame or negligence is attached to some of the officials for the careless distribution of orders, failure to obey, or lack of care, but few complaints are ever heard against the engineer, the man at the throttle, and upon whose judgment and cool head so much depends for weal or woe, says the Lexington Democrat. And to a large extent this is right.

The locomotive engineers constitute a peculiar class of people that is neither understood or appreciated by the general public. Sober, silent, alert, with the time-table for their Bible and train-train-dispatcher's orders for their written creed, they discharge their dangerous duty. If a federal soldier loses his little finger in the service of his country he is voted a hero and is given a pension. When a locomotive engineer deliberately goes to his death to protect the lives of others and the property committed to his care, his chief reward is a few lines in the daily press. Such occurrences among them are two common to excite public comment.

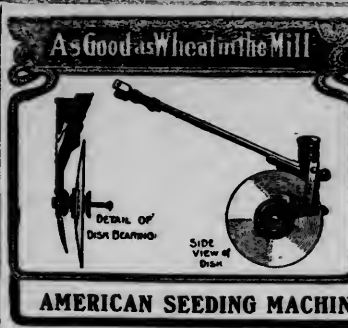

If all the dangers of the rail were as patent to the public as to the man at the throttle, there would be precious little traveling for pleasure. The public hear only of the accidents that occur, not of the thousands averted by the cool judgment and leonine courage of the man in the engineer's cab. Mounted upon his iron steed, with its heart of fire and breath of flame, he goes rushing through the midnight storm at the rate of fifty miles per hour, dragging in its wake a heavy train loaded with precious human freight. He may know that the speed attained is too rapid for either the track or the rolling stock but the time tables call for it and it must come. The rails may spread at any moment, or the next switch be misplaced. Sleepy dispatchers some times blunder and a collision may occur, but he can only keep his eye on the slippery track, his hand on the lever and cog plunging on. If any accident occurs those in the coaches must escape with only a slight shaking no matter what occurs to him. He must stand at his post like a Roman sentinel though the heavens rain fire. To the man at the throttle the engine is no dull, dead piece of mechanism, but it is a living, sentient creature to be praised when it does well and when it does ill it gets its rebuke. It responds to his touch like a well trained steed and the engineer grows as much attached to it and talks to it as a good jockey does to his mount.

No man who is troubled with what people sometimes call nerves has the least business to handle a locomotive. To promptly manage one and at the same time enjoy good health requires not only superior courage, but a stoicism worthy of a Sioux warrior. The locomotive engineers shoulder more responsibilities and face graver dangers than almost any other class of men that could be mentioned. Imagine yourself in a cab, at the end of a long night run with a heavy train upon an ill-constructed track, a veritable serpent of rust resting on rotten ties. The engineer has scarce spoken a word except to quote a little sacred blank verse at the brakeman, who is new at his job and even his orders to the fireman are given by a motion of the hand as he strikes the stiff home grade his while demeanor changes. He gets off his bench, looks back at his train, surveys his engine as if calculating upon its strength and says:

"Now, old girl, you've got to hustle for it. Pull yourself together and your feet. Here, here, no skirt dancing, madam. This is no hop joint. Steady, old girl, steady."

The huge machine plunges at the grade and struggles like a living creature. Her short puffs wake the echoes far and wide. The engineer coaxes as a driver might a willing horse, and the engine, which seems to understand him, responds with greater exertions, but the heavy loads roll slower and slower, the drivers slip despite the sand, throwing off a million metallic sparks and the "old girl" is stalled. Then comes a sharp, short whistle like a shriek of some sentient animal crying for aid, and the rear brakes are hard set upon which she rears. Her engine is no longer "old girl" and "sweet heart," but she is the most disreputable old drab that ever inhabited Chicago bottoms. The engine stands for a minute as if heartily ashamed of itself, panting like a roadster, and then springs forward with a bound and a jerk. The cars follow that puts a supreme test on the draw-heads, then the brakes are quietly released and "old girl" having retrieved her moral character, goes puffing proudly into port and the day's run is at an end.

Catarrh of the Stomach.

When the stomach is overloaded; when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane exposing the nerves and causes the glands to secrete mucus, instead of the natural juices of digestion. Land, Stock, Crops.

Farm work is well up.

Only a fair crop of apples is indicated in the most of the principal apple States, the most favorable reports being received from Kansas and Iowa.

Tobacco is doing very well; some is being topped.

The general outlook for tobacco is very promising, the least favorable reports being received from Ohio, where however, the crop is doing fairly well.

The crop situation is the subject of much discussion just now. Opinions vary as to the outcome, but are in the main favorable to a fair crop of grain while the cotton, tobacco and hay crops are almost certain to be under the average.

Oats are being harvested; the yield will be short, though the winter oats are generally good.

Smith & Neil and J. C. Durham bought in Cumberland county 100 fine butcher cattle at 2 to 3c; of N. S. Mercer, 30 hogs at $3.30; and 180 hogs for $1,875 to Durham Bros., shipped 30 cattle to Louisville which brought $1,160; bought two mules of J. C. Cooper for $255.—Adair News.

Corn is looking some better since the hot days begun to visit us. Oats with us is fine, said to be a full crop. Both winter and spring oats look well and are turning out quite a large crop.—Hart Co. News.

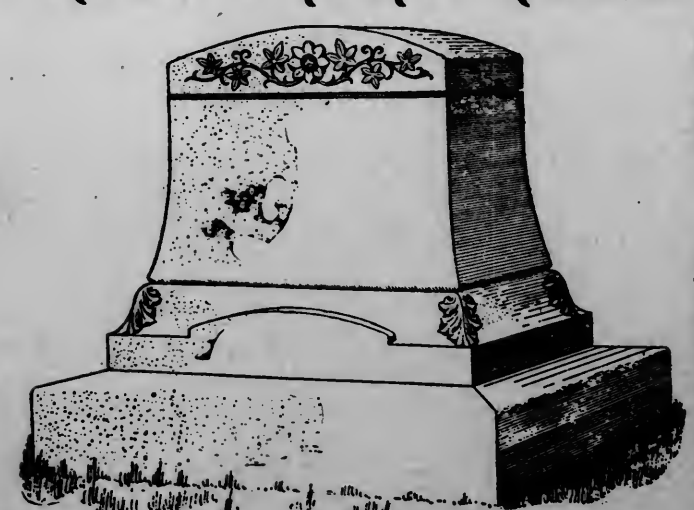

The hot days have had a beneficial effect upon the growing crops, especially on the late corn (and it's all late.) The oat harvest will begin in our locality this week, and, generally, are tolerably good, notwithstanding many crops are too thin.—Nelson County Record.

Hay cutting has progressed well. In the western portion of the State the crop is good, but it is generally light elsewhere. Clover has yielded fairly well.

Irish potatoes are very good. Gardens are in need of rain.

A drive through the country of Pendleton and Bracken counties evidenced the fact that tobacco is in a healthy and thrifty condition, but much more backward than in the bluegrass section. The indications, notwithstanding, portend a good crop of the weed.—Pendletonian.

Misses Margaret Jones, of Paducah, and Ethel Dunn, of your city, are visitors at Eugene Berkeley's.

Dr. Sam Steadman and family, of Versailles, are guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Steadman.

The meeting that has been in progress at the Methodist church for the last twelve days closed Sunday evening.

Rev. Adams preached a series of sermons in that earnest, practical manner peculiar to himself, that struck at the very root of sin, and the people were made to think the power of God was manifested in the conviction and conversion of sinners.

His pastor rendered much service. His able prayers and earnest talks went straight to the hearts of the people. Rev. A. P. Jones was with us also, preached several times,—to appreciate this man of God is to hear him. He preaches with great union, and God honors his ministry. There were nine conversions and seven united with this church—some backsliders reclaimed, and the church revived, and we believe that much good was done, for which we thank God, our Father.

Most political speeches are as much too long for the hearers as they are too short for the speakers.

When a man goes away from home for a change he usually comes back with less than he had when he started.

The Chicago Chronicle comments thus on a difficulty that arises frequently in various counties:

"Nowadays when a young hopeful is taken by the collar and gently shaken by a school teacher his fond parents first have nervous prostration and then rush off and have the pedagogue arrested. Yet men who are scarcely middle-aged can remember when the boy who came home from school howling that he had been whipped was very likely to be taken to the cellar for a repetition of the dose on general principles—it being argued that if he was licked at school he deserved it and probably did not get licked enough. Probably all this was very wrong, but we cannot forget that there was not one juvenile 'tough' in those days to a score in this era of moral anarchy. The switch seemed to have a desirable effect."

Our farmers are crying for rain, although but little more than a week has passed since we had a good shower. Corn in some of the fields is already wilting badly.

Messrs. Arnold and Leake, of Lancaster, expect to complete plastering the new church here this week, and the building will then be completed in a short time.

While returning with the mail last Saturday, a front wheel ran off the wagon driven by Taylor Botkin. The horse became frightened and ran away, hurting himself considerably. Taylor, finding himself unable to hold the horse, jumped and badly sprained his ankle.

The many friends of J. Thompson Baker, a former Wallacetown boy, will be glad to learn that he has recently been elected Principal of the High School of Temple, Texas, a city of 10,000 inhabitants. "Thompson" has been there only one year, as one of the teachers but after the close of his year's work was unanimously elected principal at a salary of $1,080 per year.

The Louisville Courier-Journal to Make a Cash Distribution to Subscribers

In 1891 the Courier-Journal, of Louisville inaugurated and carried to a successful issue the first great estimating contest ever conducted by a newspaper. This contest was based on the Presidential election of 1890, and $14,000 was distributed to Courier-Journal readers.

In response to numerous requests the Courier-Journal has decided to inaugurate another similar contest based on the total vote cast for all candidates for Governor of Kentucky in the election, November 3, 1902. Ten thousand dollars (in gold, silver, or greenback) will be given away to successful estimators.

There will be single gifts of $3,000, $2,000, $1,000, $500, $250, $100, $50, and $20 and 1,000 gifts of $10 each. In addition, there will be gifts of $500, $300, and $200 for the estimate received before August 1, before September 1, October 1. The object of this profit-sharing liberality on the part of the Courier-Journal is to secure new subscribers for the Daily and Weekly Courier-Journal. Every person subscribing for the Weekly Courier-Journal one year, sending one dollar with the subscription is entitled to two guesses or estimates. Every person subscribing for the Daily Courier-Journal by mail one month (60 cents) is entitled to one guess; one year $6.00, twelve guesses. Renewals count the same as new subscribers. Write to the Courier-Journal Company today for full particulars and blanks.

A GREAT OFFER.

Louisville Times and Weekly Courier-Journal Six Months, and the Central Record For only $3.00.

The LOUISVILLE TIMES and WEEKLY COURIER-JOURNAL are making an unprecedented campaign subscription offer—both papers six months for $1; to separate addresses if desired. And to show that the Central Record can be just as liberal and enterprising we have joined the combination and will send the Central Record for a year, along with the other two for six months for $2.00; thus giving $4.00 for $2.00. All three to different addresses, as desired. "Now is the time to subscribe." Subscription received at this office.
